Summary of Investor Distribution Plans

Last Updated: 6/17/2009

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) is in the process of distributing more than $3 billion in restitution payments to individual investors who have been harmed by improper market timing and late trading activities. This document is a summary of the status of the individual Distribution Plans used to implement this restitution payment process through the SEC Fair Funds program. This summary only includes enforcement proceedings involving market timing and/or late trading activities. It does not include enforcement proceedings involving other violations of the federal securities laws.

The information contained in this document was obtained from the SEC's website (www.sec.gov). CMFI cannot guarantee the accuracy or the reliability of this information. This document has been prepared as a public service for the users of the CMFI website because there is no central location for this information within the SEC.
